STARTLING CAR ACCIDENT

Trolly Wire Wraps About a Crowded Motor and Causes Great Terror.

Car Full of Struggling Passengers Surrounded with Electric Flames-Few Injured, and None Seriously.

The residents of North Illinois street in the vicinity of Fourth street were witnesses of a very novel electrical display about 9:30 o'clock last night, the apparatus for which was furnished by the street-car company. It was about this time when motor car No. 277 on the Fairview Park line, drawing trailer No. 207, was coming south on Illinois street. At the first pole north of Fourth street the trolley wire was broken and hanging down upon the track. It was not noticed by the motorman until the cars were very close to the hanging wire, and the current was reversed immediately, but before the brake could be set the car had run into the wire, which wrapped round and round the front end of it, and became so entangled with the wheels that it was impossible to set the brake.

The wire in contact with the wheels supplied a current sufficient to run the cara distance of about 150 feet before it was finally stopped. Persons residing along the street say that it would be impossible to describe the scene of the flight of the car wrapped in a blue electrical flame that seemed to envelop the entire car. From the rapidlyrevolving wheels there war sent forth a storm of sparks and blue flame which lighted up the street for a considerable distance. There were probably twenty passengers upon the motor, which was in charge of Batty, with Andy Mc-Nuity, motorman, and about a dozen on the trailer, in charge of A. J. Lyons. The passengers on the motor car became frightened and most of them tried to jump from the car, and it was only due to the presence not hurt. Men jumped from the car, women screamed and clambered over and under the seats in their excitement, not knowing what they were doing. The motorman was laboring with the brake, trying to set it and stop the car, and during it all the wire was wrapping itself around the car, spitting blue sparks in the faces of the passengers, and the flames issuing from about the whole that made a scane power to be forgotten by parmade a scene never to be forgotten by persons who saw it. A number of them say it was the most terrible sight they ever witnessed, and that the car looked like some nessed, and that the car looked like some huge monster from the infernal regions flying down the street on an errand of destruction. J. H. Sharpe, residing at the corner of Fourth and Illinois street, said it looked like a flying funeral pyre. One could see a crowd of wildly excited persons in the car behind the blue flames frantically gesticulating and scrambling over the seats, endeavoring to reach the running board and escape from the car.

The street, for quite a distance above and below the scene of the accident, is torn up for improvement, and this made it very dangerous to attempt to alight from a moving car at any time, and much more so for women and children laboring under women and children laboring under great excitement and intent only on getting out of the car in some way. Conductor Lyons, of the trailer, by force prevented one girl from jumping from the car and probably saved her life by doing so. When the flames first began to fly from the wheels she started to jump from the car, but was caught by Lyons, who held her on the car till it stopped. On the motor was Judge Lotz, his wife and son and Mrs. Inlow, of Independence, Kan., his mother-in-law. The latter kept her seat mother-in-law. The latter kept her seat for awhile till several persons had jumped from the car, and then, before she could be prevented from doing so, she jumped just as the car crossed Fourth street. She fell upon her face on the ground and received a slight cut on the forehead and was bruised about the body, but her injuries are not serious. Judge Lotz jumped after her, and was thrown to the ground and received several slight bruises. Aside from a few slight bruises and shocks, no one else was injured. Jesse Mount, residing on Prospect street, and Thomas Holmes, residing at No. 260 East Washington street, were upon the front seat in the motor car, and both received slight shocks, and Mount was slightly bruised about the body in alighting from the car.

Mrs. Inlow was carried into the residence of J. H. Sharpe, on the corner, and Dr. Tal-bott was called to attend her. The injuries, as stated, were slight and the nervous shock was more than the injuries received in the fall. She is a woman well along in years, but displayed remarkable courage under the circumstances. A carriage was called, and she was taken to her rooms in the Windsor Hotel, in company with Judge Lotz and family. Travel on the line was stopped for several hours before the damage were run around College avenue and over Twenty-sixth street.

MURDEROUSLY ASSAULTED.

Peter Holt, Colored, Set Upon and Viciously Carved by an Unknown White Man.

Peter Holt, better known as "Chatty," a sample-carrier at the Bates House, lies on a bed in a cell in the women's department at the police station, with his head and body literally covered with bandages. His head is enveloped in a covering of white cotton and bandages till only a small portion of his face is visible, and his body is wrapped round and round with adhesive plasters, binding up two very serious cuts inflicted by an unknown assailant about half past 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The cutting occurred near the crossing of the Vandalia railroad and South West street, and was wholly without cause or provocation, according to the statements of Holt. He says he was walking down the railroad at about the hour named, when he was approached by a white man whom he had never seen before that he knew of. The white man stopped him and accused him of the theft of a coat, which Holt denied.

"Were you on Indiana avenue this afternoon?" asked the unknown.

Holt replied that he had not been on that street dering the afternoon, whereupon the other told him that he lied, and that he would have to go with him. With this the unknown person put his hand into his pocket, and before Holt was aware of what he intended to do he drew a knife and cut him twice, once on the side of the face and him twice, once on the side of the face and once on the left breast. As soon as he did the cutting the man fled, and Holt started to run after him, but did not go very far to run after him, but did not go very far on account of his wounds. He was taken to the police station, where his wounds were dressed by Dr. Hostetter, of the City Dispensary force. The cut upon the face was upon the left side, and extended the full length of the face, stopping only at the lower end of the left jaw. The cut on the body was about six inches long, and extended diagonally across the left breast from a point a little to the right and about two inches above the nipple, down through the nipple and about four incher below and to the left of it. The cuts were sewed up and bandaged, it being necessary to take a number of stitches in each.

Holt is not a prisoner at the police station, and was simply taken there to have his wounds dressed. He says that he never saw his assailant before, but would be able to identify him if he were to see him again. While the wounds are very painful, neither of them is thought to be

Miss Preble Simply Changed Employers. Miss Minnie Preble's disappearance, which was mentioned in yesterday's Journal, is causing unnecessary uneasiness on the part of her friends. She is living with the family of Mrs. H. B. Hali, on Park avenue, and is very much chagrined over the publication, as she had no intention whatever of causing her friends alarm.

Investigating Mrs. Clevenger's Death. Stephen Wilson, residing at Lafayette, called on Coroner Beck yesterday, stating that he had come here to investigate the death of Mrs. Phenny Clevenger, which occurred July 4, at the City Hospital, It appears that when Mrs. Clevenger's hu s-band took her body home to Lafavette he stated that she had died from chloroform. Mrs. Clevenger, it is said, died from the effects of a surgical operation of a delicate character. The physicians say that they administered chloroform, but she lived a half hour after the operation. They aver that the patient died from the shock incident to the intricate operation. dent to the intricate operation.

PASSENGER TRAINS MEET

Collision on the Big Four at the Missouri-Street Junction.

Both Tried to Get on the Same Track and Collided-Much Confusion, but Nobody Badly Hurt.

A peculiar wreck occurred on the Big Four at Missouri street at 7:10 o'clock last evening, which was remarkably fortunate in that nobody was killed or even seriously hurt, though both trains were crowded with passengers.

At this point the Peoria track and main track connect with the Union tracks, the Peoria coming up from the southwest and the main track coming down Missouri street. Both engineers were watching the Union track, for which they were making, and each was unaware of the presence of the other train. Therefore both trains tried to get upon the Union track at once, and collided. The engine of the Peoria train struck the baggage car of the other just about amidship, knocking it off its trucks and smashing it up badly. Both engineers and firemen staid in their cabs and escaped injury. The baggage men on the Chicago train were badly jostled and bruised, but not seriously hurt. The shock of the collision threw a large The shock of the collision threw a large number of passengers in both trains from their seats, and there was a vast amount of screaming and confusion, but when an account of stock was taken it was found that there were no injuries more serious were switched into the Union Station and went on their way, while a wrecking crew soon had the tracks cleared. Rumors of a very disastrous wreck were spread about the city, and a large concourse of people gathered at the scene.

Sanitary Society The regular monthly meeting of the Sanitary Society will be held this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the Propylaum. Dr. A. W. Brayton will read a paper, and various matters of vital interest will be brought before the society. This is the season of the year when there is great need of the greatest sanitary precautions, and it is hoped that all those who appreciate health and life will manifest an interest and assist this body of workers in their promo-
